

You should consider moving the Federal standards of the "Do Not Call" program up to the level of New Jersey's program. Allowing businesses an 18 month grace period to continue to harrass consumers and invade their privacy effectively defeats the purpose of the legislations.

If I choose to engage a retailer in a conversation, Don't call me - I'll call you.